Design Technology Workshop Technician Directly working in Resistant Materials (Supporting in other faculty areas)

Required: asap

Hours: 35 Hours TTO + 2 days

(Monday – Thursday 8.00am – 4.00pm, Friday 8.00am – 1.15pm)

Salary: Band 7 Point 21 – 25 (£16,457 - £18,516)

Carlton Bolling is an Outstanding school which has been on a rapid improvement journey over recent years, with results in 2017 within the top 5% of schools nationally. This progress was recognised by Ofsted who praised the “Highly aspirational vision for the school”.

Staff enjoy working at Carlton Bolling and are supported and encouraged to lead and develop practice “Pupils and staff are enthused and excited to excel. Pupils and staff work together within a harmonious community, where they are fully supported”: Ofsted, November 2017.

Although we are rated Outstanding, we are still moving forward at the same trajectory on our path to become one of the top 1% of schools in the country. If you share this vision, and are prepared to put in the effort to attain this goal, we would like to hear from you.

The Art, Design and Technology Faculty is a large faculty with 12 teachers and 3 technicians. We follow the national curriculum for years 7 and 8 and students take options for a three year GCSE from year 9 to year 11. We offer GCSE subjects in Art & Design, Digital Photography, Food and Nutrition, Resistant Materials and Graphics. Class sizes are around 20-22 students at KS3 and 20 at KS4 and staff are supported with some excellent resources and training.

Our ideal candidate for this post must be able to provide specialist support for the ADT curriculum area particularly resistant materials and graphics

If you think this might be the role for you, please contact Human Resources for an information pack and an application form.

If you would like to visit the school, please contact: David Boyle, Head of ADT Faculty.
